The brilliancy of the coming social senson will be greatly contributed to by the marvelous toggery brought from Paris and London by the manerous assistantial women who have spent the season abroad.

Sprincile creations of white talls and gause over white satin, sown with pearls sparsing with namons, or other githering jewels, or generaling with notions, or other githering pearls, have been carefully imported for the adorating of unitary debatantes. Velvet princesse gowns of severe biae, with enamelied battons, and high collars of ostrich plantes have been favored by blonds, with assining golden hair, with a singular manimity when they will better appreciate when the first functions bring them out in unform. Chamerous stansandsikis have been selected in mephisto reils, changing to every shade from the warmest fireglow to blue blazes by the brinterless, who that the irrist for the promised from a glimpte at the contents of various overflowing "boxes."

TENTH "Y" ORGANIZED.

Seventeen Enthusiastic Young Women Banded Together for Temperance. There was quite an interesting assemblage of young people last evening in the southeast parior of the First Cogregaonal Church, on the corner of Tenth and southeast parior of the First Courtegational Church, on the corner of Tenth and G streets northwest.

The occasion was the organization of the tenth "Y" of the W. C. T. U. The organization was under the direction of Mrs. S. D. La Fetra, president of the District "Y's," and was witnessed by a large number of the members of other "Y's" of the city. The form of initiation was simple, consisting of the signing of the consituation and laking the pledge of total abstinence.

The new organization numbers twelve active and five honorary members, with the tollowing officers: President, Mrs. Alfred Wood; vice-president, Mabel Clattin; recording secretary, Miss Annie Hughes, and treasurer, Miss Pertie Rearick.

The meeting was opened with prayer by Mrs. Alfred Wood, which was followed by a vocal selection by the choir from the F street headquarters. Next followed a piano solo by Miss Josie Gillenwater.

Short addresses were made by Mrs. Julia
H. Platt, on "Girls, Show Your Colors," and Misses Gillenwater, Alice Stewart, and Bertha Gray, on "What the 'Y' Has

PRAISED JAMES E. PUGH

Impressive Obsequies of the Late General Secretary of Y. M. C. A.

After Services at Foundry Church the Remains Were Sent to His Pennsylvania Home for Interment.

The funeral of the late James E. Pugh and Egra A. Wilson, of Washington, ors.

Mayor Thompson, Mr. John Strider, chairman of the committee on public property, and Mr. M. B. Harlow, president of the Hydraulion Fire Company, had a conference yesterday with Supervisors Corbett, Grunwell and Duncan in regard to the erection of a fire engine house in the south corner of the old court house lot, which is owned jointly by the city and county. The question was thoroughly discussed, but the county supervisors requested a postponement of the matter until Monday a week, so that they can have a conference with the county attorney in regard to the matter. was held yesterday morning at Foundry M. E. Church and the last sad tributes of respect paid to the memory of a man who in life was widely known and well thought of by every one with whom he came in contact.

. The cortege arrived at the church at 9:15 and was met at the entrance by Rev. Oliver A. Brown, pastor of the church, Rev. Dr. Green, of Calvary Church, so that they can have a conference with the county attorney in regard to the matter.

The lower section of the city, about Union, Prince, and King streets, was greatly startled yesterday antermoon by a report like the explosion of a heavy ann. Investigation showed that George Petty, Jr., about twelve years of age, had fillled a piece of boiler tubing about three feet long, and biagging the ends up tigally, had driven it into the ground and trea set it off with a match. The explosion tore a big hole in the earth and twisted the tube into a dozen knots. The boy was only a few feet away when the explosion occurred, but escaped unbort.

The city committee on-streets has invited the property owners living along Fayette street to meet with them next week, when the application of the Pennsylvania Railroad for permission to lay a double track in Fayette street will be considered.

The steamer Norfolk, of the Washington and Norfolk line, which has been laid off for some days receiving an overhauling, will resume her place in the line on Monday next.

Judge James Sargster, who was nominated by the Republicans of Fairfax county and Rev. Dr. Elliot, formerly paster of Foundry. The church had in the mean-time filled with the friends of Mr. Pugh time filled with the friends of Mr. Pugh and in the assemblage were scores of the best known Christian workers in the Dis-trict. In the space in front of the pulpit stood two monster crosses wrought in white roses, tributes from Foundry Church. Preceded by Dr. Brown, who recited the funeral lessons of the church, the pro-cession moved down the west aisle while the year assemblage stood. First came the the vast assemblage stoot. First came the officiating elergymen, followed by the direct friends and kindred of Mr. Pugh, and the honorary pallbearers, who were: A. S. Woodward, T. A. Harding, E. W. Woodruff, Col. George Truesdell, William B. Gurley and J. C. Pratt.

ruff, Col. George Truesdell, William B. Gurley and J. C. Pratt.

Behind these was borne the black casket covered with Thowers from the Young Men's Christian Association and friends. Arriving at the pulpit, the casket was placed gentify down, walle Rev. Dr. Brown completed the reading of the funeral lessons. Rev. Dr. Green offered a facing prayer and Dr. Brown made a few remarks, at the conclusion of which the Apollo Quartette, composed of Messrs. McFarland. Turpin, Reeside and Ryan. rendered "Lead Kindly Light." Rev. Dr. Elliot was the next speaker. He had known the deceased in the years gone by. He spoke of the endearing qualities of Mr. Pugh. Mr. T. William Pearman sang a solo, prayer was offered, and after a last look into the quiet face of the dead secretary of the Y. M. C. A. the body was borne to the Peursylvania station, and left at 11 o'clock for Stroudsburg, Pa., the former home of Mr. Pugh, where interment will be, made.

The active pall-learers were Charles F. Nestat. J. W. Crawford, J. S. Parker, W. S. Mearthar, E. A. Beckman and Charles H. Chase, all members of the Y. M. C. A. The ushers were George S. Ginson, George Cabill, A. B. Leet and W. B. Matthews.

Judge James Sangster, who was nomi-nated by the Republicans of Fairfax county for the nouse of delegates, has declined the REV. ROBERT WHITTY'S DEATH.

He Was a Friend of Daniel O'Connell, the Great Irish Liberator.

The death of Rev. Robert Whitty, S. J. one of the most venerable and distinguished members of the Jesuitorder, was announced by a telegram from London received at Georgetown University today.

WILLS FILED FOR PROBATE.

The death of Rev. Robert Whitty, S. J., one of the most venerable and distinguished members of the Jeauthorder, was announced by a telegram from London received at Georgetown University to day.

American interest, particularly in Irish circles, centers in Father Whitty's warm friendship and association with Daniel O'Connell, and that twice he came to America in behalf of the Irish people. Father Whitty has been in great positions during all his priestly career. For years he was the provost of that great scholar and statesman, Cardinal Wiseman, and while Daniel O'Connell was the leader of the Irish party he was considered a person of as great importance as his brilliant and versatile triend. Father Whitty was with the great Irish agitator during his fatal illness and administered to him the last rites of the church. One Was That of a Person Not Yet Three wills were filed for probate yea-terday. The last will of John M. Stanford was dated October 3, last. It is under was dated October 3, last. It is under tood that Mr. Stanford died only on the 9th instant, and that his remains have not yet been buried. He left all of his personalestate to his widow, who is named as executrix, and gave her a life interest in his real estate in Syracuse, N. Y. At the leath of the wife the realty is to go to his sister, Emmaline C. Yoding.

The will of the late Celia J. Mount bore the same date as that of Mr. Sanford. She left all of her property to her daughter, Liflie Gay Mount.

Catherine Quinn's will was dated October 6, 1892. All of her estate, including a one half interest in lot 26, square 236, is to be shared by her sisters, Ellen Quinn, Isabella Mackin, Annie Q. Ryan and Alice Quinn. Ellen Quinn and Joseph C. Ryan are named as executors. Father Whitty's death occurred at West-minster, where he was vicar general, and resulted from pneumonia.

No return has yet been made by the grand jury in Miss Flagler's case, but a return so soon after that body's consideration of the case is hardly to be expected.

The general belief among those who have followed the case is that the charge will be ignored, though there are a number who believe the jurors may make a presentment of manslaughter.

If the grand jury should make a presentment it will noubtless be a number of days before the District attorney will have prepared the indictment. DR. WHITMAN'S INAUGURATION.

DR. WHITMAN'S INAUGURATION.

Details of His Installation as Prestdent of Columbian University.

The inauguration of Dr. Benaiah Longley Whitman, D. B., as president of the Columbian University will take place on November 15 in the university hall, on the corner of Fifteenth and H streets. It will be one of the most brilliant events of the educational season. The best known university men of the country will be present, including a large delegation from Colby, of which Dr. Whitman was the alte president.

Addresses from the various deans of the Columbian faculties and from the board of trustees will be notable features. Dr. Whitman's inaugurai speech will be of chief interest, as he will then expound his views and the policy which will hereafter characterize the management of the Columbian.

A reception will follow the literary part folk and Fortress Monroe. There's much of interest to see, while enjoying a most delightful ride, that breaks the monotony of railroad travel. The visit to Fortress Monroe, Virginia Beach, and the novel sights in and around Norrolk amply repays the time spent. The Norfolk and Washington Steamboat Company's steamers leave every evening at 7 p. m., reaching Norfolk at 7 next morning, where connections are made for all points North, South and West. Any information will be cheerfully furnished by Col. John Callahan, at company's wharf, Seventh street, Tickets, maps, etc., 513, 619, 1421 Pa. avenue, and B. and O. ticket office, Fifteenth and New York avenue.
